KADO

TREE VASES IN TRASPARENT BLOWN BOROSILICATE GLASS WITH STACKABLE LIDS

Kado is the “way of flowers” and refers to the road to spiritual elevation, according to Zen principles.

Sometimes branches, sometimes in a bunch, sometimes a single flower, sometimes on a long stalk, sometimes a wild flower such as a daisy.

These three vases, of different heights and capacities, have stackable lids in transparent borosilicate glass that narrow the spout to accommodate the flowers better. One last element acts as a cap, so that they can also be used as receptacles.
